To whom it may concern,

As editorial team of the magazine for architecture in context: Protocol, we would like to draw your attention to our Open Call.

The Call will be organized around the topic of criticism, and we would like to invite members of your institution to participate, or to pass the word on to those who may be interested.

Proposed contributions will be evaluated on the basis of a proposed title, an abstract (maximum 500-words) and a short bio (maximum 150 words). Submissions will be accepted until Juli 21st, and the edition is scheduled to be published this autumn.

Protocol Magazine is an interdisciplinary and independent platform, for discourse around architecture in context, founded by students of the UDK architecture faculty in Berlin. As editorial team, we are interested in gathering together the widest possible variety of contributions, from a variety of disciplines. We welcome the contribution of essays, illustrations, designs, protocols, comic strips, poems and novelles.

In addition, we encourage smaller but meaningful contributions in the form of a few lines of text, a small drawing or a single photo.

With kind regards,
The Protocol Team
